This project is funded by the European Union and implemented by EASA

Kiev, 24 September 2019

Part M training

A two day training on Part M: ARC and ACAM was delivered on 23 and 24 September 2019 in Kiev, Ukraine, with the objective to achieve a better, practical understanding about Airworthiness Review Certificates (ARC) and Aircraft Continuing Airworthiness Management (ACAM), in order for the authority and industry to be able to effectively implement these subjects in their oversight and management systems. The first part of the course provided an insight on the purpose of the airworthiness review and it's relation to ACAM, as well as the cultural context. The dedicated ARC and ACAM parts of the course explained the details of the requirements and how to practically implement them. To that end, hands-on examples were used to highlight the areas that need particular attention.

Altogether 139 training participants from SAAU and Ukrainian industry attended the training.