1 Introduction

RECAT-EU designates the new aircraft wake turbulence separation scheme endorsed by EASA and already operated by several air navigation service providers in Europe. It consists in six categories taking into account the strength and evolution of the wake turbulence generated and the resistance characteristics of the following aircraft.

The datasheet included in the document provides the assigned RECAT-EU wake turbulence category (WTC) for each aircraft type included in the ICAO Document 8643 ‘Aircraft Type Indicators’¹. It provides as well the ICAO ‘legacy’ WTC (Heavy / Medium / Light), which is the wake turbulence category indicator used in ICAO model flight plan.

The assignment of the RECAT-EU wake turbulence category is performed jointly by Eurocontrol and EASA.

Several aircraft types have no assigned WTC (marked as “None” or “TBC”) when the analysis for their assignment to the RECAT-EU scheme is not yet completed.

The datasheet is split in two lists, one for landplane aircraft, one for helicopters, in accordance to the ICAO Doc 8643 designation.
