

Ricardo Suarez-Bertoa is a Scientific Policy Officer of the European Commission Joint Research Centre (JRC). He holds a Ph.D. in chemical science by the University of Milano Bicocca, Italy. Ricardo has worked on vehicle and engine emissions from conventional and alternative fuels since 2013 at the JRC's Sustainable Transport Unit. He worked in the field of atmospheric chemistry at the University of California, Irvine and at the Laboratoire Interuniversitaire des Systèmes Atmosphériques in Paris