COLOGNE, 13 July 2006

Farnborough Press Conference with Patrick Goudou, Executive Director

The European Aviation Safety Agency (EASA) has experienced rapid growth in the first half of 2006. The previous Joint Aviation Authorities (JAA) will be integrated into the Agency in 2007 and a further extension of the Agency's remit is expected in the near future. Patrick Goudou, the Executive Director and Dr. Norbert Lohl, Certification Director will report on these and other topics at a press conference on:

17 July at 13:00hrs
in the Farnborough Media Centre, Radlett Suite (following the Airbus press conference)

The European Aviation Safety Agency is strengthening its partnership with the British aviation industry through a series of events designed to better inform UK businesses of changes in the European regulatory system.

The European Aviation Safety Agency is the central regulatory body of the European Union for aviation safety. In close collaboration with national authorities, it aims to achieve highest common standards of safety in European civil aviation.
