European Union Aviation Safety Agency

FAQ n.19022

FAQs:

Privileges of a Part-66 licence, Part-66, Continuing Airworthiness, Regulations

Question:

Can I have endorsed in my Part-66 licence aircraft types for which the Basic Regulation is not applicable?

Answer:

The competent authority of the Member State issuing the licence may include in the Annex (Section XIV) of EASA Form 26 types for which the Basic Regulation is not applicable. The privileges endorsed for these types are based only on the national rules. The use of Section XIV of EASA Form 26 is optional.

EASA does not have any information about these types. If you want to get information about them, please contact the competent authority.

Last updated:

22/03/2019

Link:

https://www.easa.europa.eu/en/faq/19022